W. D. "Bill" Eason does not give up easily. He was among the original group of owners of the Indiana Pacers, called Indiana Professional Sports, Inc., and when the Pacers ran into financial difficulties last winter he was among the first to step forward to find the answer to keep the Pacers in Indianapolis. "When I came to Indiana from Texas, one of the first things that I realized was that basketball was very important to the people here" says the likeable Chairman, Chief Executive Officer and founder of Bio-Dynamics. "I feel that professional basketball belongs in Indiana, and Indiana should be an integral part of professional basketball."

Mr. Eason graduated from Butler University with a Chemistry Degree before founding Bio-Dynamics, a laboratory firm here in Indianapolis.

He spent four years in the Air Force in World War II and served in the European operation as a radio operator.

Mr. Eason has received several honors during his career including a Fellowship Award from the American Association for the Advancement of Science in 1968 plus Honorary Doctor of Science Degrees from both Butler University and Marian College in 1975.

He and his wife Hazel, also a joint owner in Arena Sports, Inc., have two children, and three grandchildren.

Thomas W. Binford

President

To call Tom Binford a "busy" man is quite an understatement. In addition to running the affairs of the Indiana Pacers, Mr. Binford is also very active in U.S. and International auto racing, as well as his own management consultant firm, Heritage Management, Inc.

One of the most well-respected men in the Indianapolis community, Mr. Binford was instrumental in putting together the 10-man group that purchased the Pacers last winter to bail them out of their financial problems. He is also given a great deal of credit for the job he has done at the Indianapolis 500 Motor Speedway since taking over as Chief Steward for the 500 Mile Race in 1974.

A life-time resident of Indianapolis, Tom graduated from Park School and was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Princeton University in 1948. During World War II, he spent three years in the service as a Technical Sergeant in Military Intelligence.

Upon graduation, Tom began his business career with the D-A Lubricant Co., becoming President in 1954, and Chairman of the Board in 1972. In 1970, D-A merged with Premier Industrial Corp. of Cleveland, Ohio.

Some of his various functions in community affairs include: Serving as a Director for: The Christian Theological Seminary; Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce; United Way of Greater Indianapolis; and as Chairman of the St. Vincent's Hospital Foundation; Indiana Committee of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission; Indianapolis Urban League; Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology; and the Indiana Mental Health/Mental Retardation Planning Commission.

The respect that he warrants as a businessman is testified to by his service on the Board of Directors of the following companies: Indiana National Bank & Corp.; Jefferson National Life Insurance Co.; Jefferson Corp.; Bio-Dynamics Corp.; Ransburg Corp.; the Indianapolis Water Co.; and Indianapolis Raceway Park.

INDIANA PACERS' INFORMAL HISTORY

On February 2, 1967 a franchise in the newly formed American Basketball Association was offered to a group of Indiana businessmen and sportsmen. That group was comprised of: John DeVoe, a successful insurance man; Richard Tinkham, an attorney; Bob Collins, Sports Editor of the Indianapolis Star; Charles M. Barnes, Sports Headliners; L. Charles DeVoe, L. M. DeVoe Co.; Ron Woodard, Circle Securities; E. J. Bannon, a Lafayette banker; and Lynn Treece, Burger Chef Systems.

Armed with the results of two feasibility studies conducted by the city that indicated the Indianapolis area could support professional basketball, the group accepted the franchise and pro basketball was "back home again in Indiana."

Indiana Professional Sports, Inc. was formed to own and operate the new franchise. The corporation was in business and its first Board of Directors consisted of: E. J. Bannon, President; John DeVoe, Executive Vice-President; Robert Bowes II; L. Charles DeVoe; Richard Ebershoff; Norb Schaeffer; Richard Tinkham; Lynn Treece, and J. Fred Wiese.

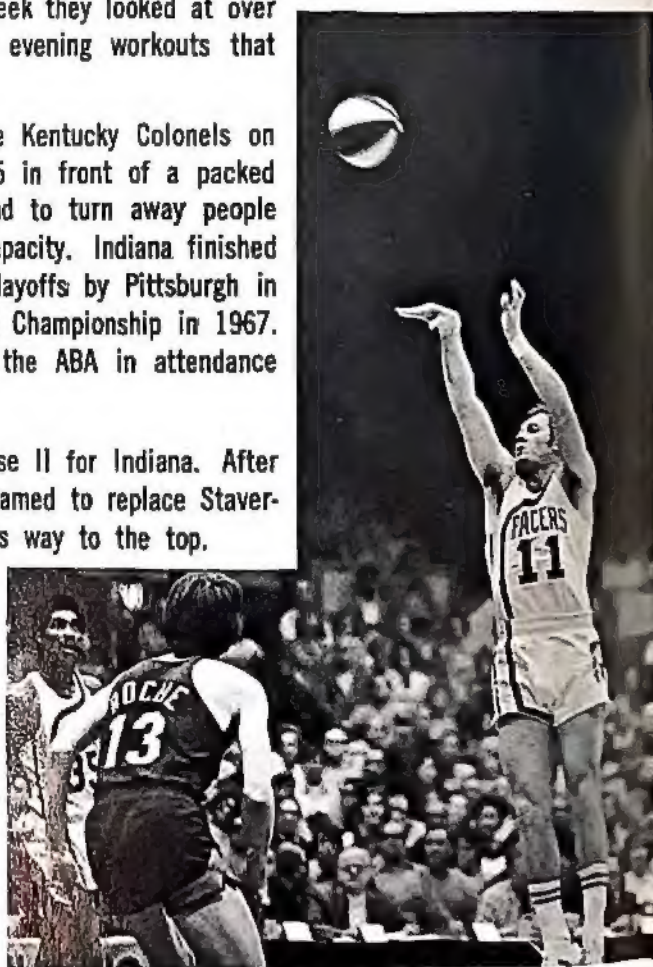

On June 16, 1967 the franchise announced that it would be known as the "Indiana Pacers" because the organization intended to "set the pace" in professional basketball. Mike Storen was named the first General Manager, with Bernie Lareau the Trainer and Business Manager, and Larry Staverman, an Assistant at Notre Dame, chosen as the first coach of the Pacers.

The Pacers' first draft pick was Jimmy Walker, a guard from Providence; while Roger Brown was the first player to be signed by the Pacers. Assisted by Bobby Leonard and Clyde Lovellette, Coach Staverman held tryouts the week of June 19th, 1967. During that week they looked at over 50 prospects and had over 15,000 fans view the evening workouts that were open to the public.

The Pacers played their first game against the Kentucky Colonels on October 14, 1967 and defeated the Colonels 117-95 in front of a packed crowd in the Fairgrounds Coliseum. The Pacers had to turn away people at the gate because the Coliseum was filled past capacity. Indiana finished with a 38-40 record and was eliminated in the playoffs by Pittsburgh in 3 straight. Pittsburgh went on to capture the ABA Championship in 1967. Despite a record below .500 the Pacers still led the ABA in attendance averaging almost 5,000 per game.

The 1969 season marked the beginning of Phase II for Indiana. After only 9 games into the season Bobby Leonard was named to replace Staverman as coach of the Pacers and Indiana was on its way to the top.

That season Indiana won the Eastern Division and made it to the ABA Championship Finals before losing to Oakland 4-1. The next season, 1970, Indiana ran away from the ABA by posting a 59-25 record, won the East again, and won their first Championship by beating Los Angeles 4-2.

1971 saw Indiana moved to the Western Division, which they also won marking the third straight year Leonard had led the Pacers to a division title. However, they were eliminated from the playoffs by eventual Champion Utah in a 7-game series. The final game of the series was played at the Coliseum in front of an overflow unannounced crowd.

1972 was the beginning of a frustrating but very rewarding period for the Indiana Pacers. In both 1972 and 1973 Indiana finished second in the Western Division but were able to regroup to win the Championship in the playoffs. In '72 they overcame some internal problems and ousted the Utah Stars in a fantastic 7-game series upsetting the Stars in the 7th game in Utah. Indiana captured its second ABA Crown by beating the New York Nets 4-2. In '73 the Pacers breezed past Denver and Utah into the Championships against Kentucky. Indiana beat the Colonels for the title winning the 7th game in Louisville in a series that saw the home team win only two of the seven games.

1973 was the Pacers third Championship in 4 years and was the 4th time during the 5 seasons that Bobby Leonard coached the Pacers that they had made it to the Championship Finals.

1974 saw a veteran Pacers' squad struggle through the regular season, putting on a strong rush to grab second place from San Antonio. In the playoffs they beat the Spurs in 7 games and then were eliminated by Utah. In the off-season, the Pacers traded 30 years playing experience and began a rebuilding program for the future.

1975 marked the beginning of another era for the Pacers. First, they moved into the beautiful Market Square Arena with its 17,000 seats. Also, in mid-season the Pacers encountered severe financial difficulties and were up for sale. A 10-man group, headed by W. D. Eason and Tom Binford formed Arena Sports, Inc. which purchased the Club. This new group of owners was very concerned with keeping the Pacers in Indiana and continuing the Pacers' winning tradition.

And, that they did! The young, rebuilt team was the talk of the basketball world as they upset both San Antonio and Denver, the winningest team in pro ball, in the playoffs to advance to the ABA Finals! Their magic finally ran out as they lost 4-1 to Kentucky. But, during the playoffs the old "Pacer Pride" was rejuvenated and sell out crowds filled the Arena as the Pacers set all kinds of attendance records.

For 1976 the Pacers will once again be a very young team with two second-year men and as many as four rookies on the squad. But, that is pretty much the same way the Pacers began last season. Can history be repeated? Only time will tell.

Bobby Leonard

Coach & Director of Player Personnel

In mid-November 1968 the Indiana Pacers decided a coaching change was necessary. Bob Leonard was the man they wanted, but he was in no rush to get back into pro coaching. He had been out of pro ball for four years and established himself in the school ring business.

But he decided to give it another chance, at least for the rest of that season. Well, Bobby Leonard is now beginning his eighth year as coach of the Pacers with three division titles and three ABA Championships to his credit. In addition to the three league titles in 1970, 1972, and 1973, "Slick" has taken the Pacers to the Finals on two other occasions, in 1969 and 1975.

One of the most well-respected coaches on any level, Leonard has always been a fierce competitor. He got his start at Terre Haute Gerstmeyer under Howard Sharpe and then onto an All-American career at Indiana University. Dick led Branch McCracken's Hoosiers to the 1953 National title.

Bob is now beginning his 16th season in pro basketball, 7 as a player and 9 as a coach. With this experience Leonard knows all the angles in pro ball and uses them to keep the Pacers a winning team. Bob & his wife Nancy have 5 children.
